Brad Walterhouse was born in the city of Grand Prairie, Canada and was raised in the nearby town of Wembley. Brad learned golf from his father at the young age of 4 years old. While he always continued to play golf, Ice Hockey was his sport of choice through his childhood and most of his teenage years. At the age of 16 he decided to enter his first competitive golf tournament (the local men’s open) and realized that it just might be something that he could be good at. His competition also realized this when Brad won the tournament. So he started to work on his game and think about the possibility of a career in golf.

In 1997 Brad enrolled in the Professional Golf Management program at Grant MacEwan College in Edmonton, Alberta. After a couple of years working in the Golf Shop at a local club, and a year away from the business, he joined the team at the Red Deer Golf & Country Club in 2001. After turning Professional in 2002, Brad took on the roll of Junior Golf Coordinator at the Red Deer Golf & Country Club and found his true passion as a Golf Instructor. He soon became the top instructor at the club, and began to create new and exciting programs for the local junior golfers.

In 2007 Brad was extremely proud to be recognized by his peers when he was awarded the prestigious, PGA of Alberta, Junior Leader of the Year award, for his significant contributions to Junior Golf.

After eight years in Red Deer, Brad is excited to come to Singapore and join the team at Heartland Golf School at Jurong Country Club
